Product Description

Wizard, Card Game, for 3-6 Players, from 10 Years (DE edition)

The game that makes you mad! A long, long time ago, the apprentice sorcerers had to learn this game to practice their magical skills in order to develop the gift of foresight. Not so easy if you don't have the gift of prophecy. The aim of the game is to get the most points. Each player has to predict the number of tricks they will receive during the game.

In the first round, players receive only one card, in the next round two cards and so on until all cards are in play in the last round. Whoever predicts their tricks most accurately will receive the most points. The points achieved are noted on the "Block of Truth" and this also provides information about who is ultimately chosen as the best magician.

The cards with mystical symbols and atmospheric drawings take the players back to the time when the apprentice sorcerers performed their magical rituals in Stonehenge. Four game variations ensure Wizard never gets boring even for true masters of foresight.
