Product Description

Torres, board game

The king is looking for a successor and test his sons. Only the one who builds the highest and greatest castles can become his successor. The players slip into the role of the king's sons and send out their six best knights to win the building competition. Depending on which castles the king is inspecting, additional points will be awarded - but to which construction will the king go next?

- 2-4 players
- 10-99 years
