Product Description

4 Data Brokers, Card Game, for 2-4 Players, from 8 Years

Five centuries after Francis Bacon said that Scientia est potentia, we know information is power. The more information we have, the more power we get. Wholesale information, Big Data.

The XXI century has witnessed how some new brokers have arisen. Known as the Data Brokers, they are data processors which then distribute among companies, corporations and governments. They know everything about us, even what we imagine.

The game 4 Data Brokers was born among the pages of a novel by Màrius Serra in which Oriol Comas is the main character.. Now, it goes from fiction to reality to let you experience the sense of power that only information can provide you.

During the game, players take cards from the player on their right, save two cards, vote to use special rules or take new scoring goals and finally resolve it trying to make combos or score regarding their goals. After four rounds, the Data Broker with the most points wins.
