Product Description

Beyond the Sun, board game (DE), for 2-4 players, ages 12+

As the earth begins to die, it is time for humanity to look for alternatives beyond the sun.

Welcome to the 23rd century earth. Humanity is threatened with extinction on a dying planet. In a tremendous show of strength, the entire population of the world has come together to develop future-oriented technologies that make it possible to travel beyond the solar system. The various factions that controlled the planet put their differences aside to ensure that humanity finds a new home.

You are the leader of one of these powerful factions. It is up to you to find a new home among the dozen of habitable planetary systems nearby and lead your followers there. Humanity will survive, but who will direct its fate? Your ambitions are as limitless as the galaxy we want to explore and colonize. Will your faction become the dominant power in this new age?

On their turn, the players each carry out an action that is available for them on the technology board and then produce resources. The more technologies that are researched, the more actions are available to players. Actions allow players to improve their economies, move spaceships, colonize systems, and research new technologies. The game ends when a number of achievements are completed and the faction with the most points wins.
