Product Description

As the Earth begins to die, it is time for humanity to look for alternatives beyond the Sun. In Beyond the Sun, players each take an action available to them on the technology map during their turn and then produce resources. The more technologies are researched, the more actions are available to the players. Actions allow players to improve their economy, move spaceships, colonise systems and research new technologies. The game ends when a number of achievements have been fulfilled and the faction with the most points secures victory.
