Product Description

The Junkers JU 52 is the best-known three-engined German aircraft from the Second World War. It was designed to carry passengers and transport goods and excelled in military aviation. In the early stages of the war it was also used as an auxiliary bomber. After modifications, it towed the gliders of the landing forces. JU 52 aircraft transported numerous landing units on all war fronts. The most famous operations in which JU 52s took part were: the attack on Greece, Operation Merkur, i.e. landing on Crete, and helping Field Marshal Paulus in Stalingrad. After the Second World War, the JU 52 was still produced in France under the name AAC.1 Toucan and in Spain as the CASA C.352-L. Individual units can still be found in service today!

The model made of building blocks has many moving elements such as rotating wheels with rubber tyres, moving propellers and ailerons. The opening door to the transport compartment and the cabin allows the pilot and the German paratrooper to be used. The building block model was produced in the paint scheme used by the Luftwaffe during the landing on Crete. The building blocks have been given high quality prints that will not wear out with intensive use. It is a great toy for all young aviation enthusiasts. Thanks to the true-to-the-original proportions and details of the aircraft, the model is ideal for decorating any collection of young and adult history and aviation enthusiasts.
