Product Description

The PZL P.11c fighter to be built has been carefully crafted in 1:32 scale to match the rest of the Historical Collection, has a wingspan of 34 cm and a length of 24.5 cm. The model consists of 320 high quality elements, including numerous clamp building blocks with durable prints. Features of the aircraft include: a movable propeller, movable ailerons on the wings, the ability to mount 2 or 4 machine guns (optional), access to the pilot's cabin where you can place a figure with double-sided printing. The checkerboard prints on the underside of the wings are particularly noteworthy! The set also includes a block stand with mounting options and a sign with the model's name. A beautiful historic aircraft is a must for lovers of history, aviation and Polish military technology! It is perfect for collecting! Assembly is no problem thanks to the intuitive and clear instructions. Build history, brick by PZL P.11 - Polish fighter aircraft from before the Second World War. It was produced in Poland in PZL factories in 1934-1936. At the time of the start of production, the aircraft was among the world's best in terms of modernity. Unfortunately, it was already inferior to more modern German aircraft at the time of testing. The model has historical markings from September 1939.
