Product Description

The bottle in the middle, the game chips in the bag and off you go. Who can place their chips on the bottle without any falling off? The game chips must not be stacked on top of each other, and from the eighth level onwards they must be stacked widthways. The player who caused each chip to fall must add it to his or her supply. The game ends when the bag is empty. The winner is the player who has the fewest game chips in his supply.

The second game variant adds even more excitement to the game. Here, the players have to fulfil the tasks given to them by the action cube.
