Product Description

The Lancia Beta Montecarlo Turbo: an Old-Time Classic

The Lancia Beta Montecarlo Turbo is a one-off racing car that enabled Lancia to re-enter the racing scene in 1980 after an eight-year hiatus. In the following two years, the Lancia Beta Montecarlo Turbo fully impressed and was crowned winner of the World Endurance Championship two years in a row as well as winner of the 1980 Nürburgring race.

As good as the classic

The Carrera DIGITAL 132 Lancia Beta Montecarlo Turbo "Lancia Italia, No. 14", Nürburgring 1980 brings a legend of classic racing to the home race track. On a scale of 1:32, the vehicle demonstrates why it is so popular on the big race track. In addition to the chic paint job, the Lancia Beta Montecarlo Turbo has fully functional front, rear and brake lights. The slot car can be individually coded, has digital control and guarantees many hours of driving fun.
