Product Description

The Lancia Beta Montecarlo Turbo is an old-school racing car that Lancia used for their resumed racing competition in 1980 after an eight-year break from motorsport. Over the next few years, the car was able to establish itself as a dominant factor. The legendary race at Daytona was won by Team Martini Racing in 1981.

The Carrera EVOLUTION Lancia Beta Montecarlo Turbo "Lancia Martini Racing, No.3", 1981 brings a legend of classic racing to the home motor racing track. In 1:32 scale, the vehicle demonstrates why it is so popular on the big race track. In addition to a unique paint job in white-blue-red, the Lancia Beta Montecarlo Turbo has fully functional front and rear lights. The Carrera car can also be converted to digital using a separate digital decode and offers unmistakable driving fun for young and old alike.
