Product Description

Men at Work - board game, for 2 to 5 players, ages 8+ (DE edition)

Men at Work is a family game for 2-5 players in which the players need a steady hand. In fact the components may only be touched with one hand. First the playing field is set up. Three steel beams are placed on supports so that they do not touch the playing surface. Then a worker figure is placed on one of the steel beams and each player receives three safety certificates. Gradually, the players then draw cards from the blueprint pile. These blueprints indicate what to build next. Sometimes additional components like columns, beams, bricks and construction workers need to be added. If a player has an accident, something falls down or collapses, the active player loses one of his safety certificates. Those who do particularly well can be declared "Construction Worker of the Month". In the end, the winner is the player who is the last construction worker to have a safety certificate or who has been named "Employee of the Month" most often.

The game can be played in three different variants.
