Dragons Modern Dice Set: Obsidian

Copper wings in the night sky... Witness one of our most astonishing designs in a new version, with a D4 made in a new style with rounded edges. The powerful dragons entwine the digits, making the dice mesmerizing in their dangerous beauty. The copper painting on a black background emphasizes the immersive notion of dealing with majestic creatures, older and wiser than us.

It is a great pleasure for us in Q WORKSHOP, to present the unique Metal Svetovid Dice Set. He was a deity of warfare, horsemanship, welfare and divination. He was "the one who sees the world", the God who knew everything and with four faces had an eye on all directions. We wish all game masters to have so many voices to tell thrilling stories and eyes to see all worlds of games.

This is standard metal set with seven polyhedral dice (d4, d6, d8, d10, d12, d20, d00) if metal dice can be a standard game tool. The dice are made not from casual material but from the best "heavy metal", like armours and weapon of brave Slavic Tribes. This set is silver - grey with black painting in complexly carved engravings. We decorated these master crafted dice with engraved stylized Slavic backgrounds behind numbers (with the motive of cereal ears for your welfare) and covered with small reliefs of Svetovid himself on the edges and warriors helmets in the corners. If you are looking for dice for real warriors, this is the best choice.

Everything in this set is the best of what we can do in dice sets making: best metal, master crafted design with a hint of genius, elegant box, ideal for gifts. We hope that Svatovid would be proud of us. This set is Divine, not only Wonderful. Every throw of these beautiful dice will summon the unstoppable powers! Every throw can make your characters the greatest heroes of myths. It's not important where or in which universe, the Tales about Heroes are immortal, as our metal dice. These dice are after all universal and usable in all roleplaying and tabletop games. The difference between the East and the West is also a dispute over what dragons really are. In the Far East, it is believed that they are wise and good beings who help people. In the West, dragons are dangerous monsters that spread terror, eat people and burn their belongings. Nonetheless, the world is wholesome, and divisions are not needed in many domains - that's why we designed our dice with the universal image of dragons in mind. Thanks to this, these polyhedrons are dedicated to all kinds of draconic beings, regardless of their affiliation to the elements, respect for the idea of good and evil, or individual characteristics.

It is known everywhere around the globe that dragons are not easy to define and categorize - each wyrm is unique, even though some traits may be common among their kind. So it's often hard to unequivocally say that a certain dragon is good or bad, or what is its strongest and weakest point. There is no doubt, however, that they all inherent powerful magic, even if they are not always adept at using it. Wherever dragons appear, life flourishes in full force thanks to their innate magic - and it is only on the whim of these amazing creatures whether it will always be this way.

Our dice sets are dedicated to dragons, so it's essential they must inspire respect and adoration in everyone who looks at them. We used all our knowledge, all our skills, and all the latest technological wonders, to create an exquisite design. A design that would truly be the appropriate tribute to these extraordinary creatures. We are proud of our work, and the fact that we have not been treated with a dragon's breath suggests that they are content as well.

Copper dragons are known for their curiosity, wit, and lighthearted sense of humor - all of the characteristics not usually found in winged wyrms. They do not hoard any treasures, even though they always know where to find them if need be. Most of the day you can find the copper dragon asleep somewhere deep underground, gathering strength for another night raid... but don't think they will raze a village - nothing like that! These playful creatures sneak into the lairs of other wyrms and pull a whole lot of pranks on them. That's just in their nature, nothing can be done about it.

We pay our respects to these most clever wyrms with our new dice set, knowing that they will appreciate what we've made: the Modern D4, a new kind of polyhedron that is no less legible and presentable, but a lot more practical too - thanks to its rounded edges it actually rolls before clearly showing the result.

- The majesty of dragons - Engravings depict the fan-favorite design of a flying dragon circling around digits written in a strong font.
- Colors with character - The dice material is black, and the engravings' color is copper.
- Refreshed contents - Instead of the traditional "pyramid", this set has a D4 of the Modern type, with rounded edges and clear engravings.
- Make it roll - In the Modern version of the set, all dice can roll freely during the test, giving a more random result.
