If you want to be a llama herder, you can do it in almost any place in the world. Of course, there will be people who tell you that herding dragons or jelly cubes is better! Don't believe them! Llamas are wonderful and that is a fact. But what if you don't have your own yard and pasture? Then you can let the llamas run free on your own table. Take this llama cube set and become the owner of a whole herd of these spectacular animals from Peru. You can watch these magnificent animals romp, jump and laugh on your play table. Llamas can always win and bring joy to everyone.

The llama dice sets from Q WORKSHOP are made of the best material that has matured in the pastures of real llamas in the South American highlands. These cubes are glittering dark blue like sweet night dreams of llamas and the intricate engravings of happy llamas are filled with colour that is pink like the hearts of llamas. Walking, jumping, sitting and playing llamas can be seen on one side of each cube and their footprints can be seen all over the cubes. These cubes are little miracles that bring peace and smiles everywhere. Isn't that great!

Many people write to us with questions about herding dice. We are players, and we understand that there are many questions about daily dice care. The typical questions are: What can you do better when the dice are cursed or mean and all the rolls make you sad? Llama dice are a notable example of what to do.

- Firstly, wash your dice regularly. Use a special shampoo for different types of sets. For llama cubes, you should use a product recommended for fluffy fur with a bubblegum scent. Any other product can destroy the inner joy of the llamas
- Secondly, do not use boring, plain towels for drying. Use a colourful, striped or printed cloth made of fine wool or even silk. The Peruvian blanket is the best. The better the cubes are cared for, the better the rolls will be. Everybody knows that
- Thirdly, let them rest near you, preferably on a blanket, while you dream of new games and new tasks that will make you a hero or saviour of worlds
- And finally: Smile! Smile a lot! You're playing with friends. You're using a great set. This is the time for relaxation, adventure and excitement. Forget your troubles, move on and get happy. Throw a handful of fun dice and save the world, defeat evil and collect the bounty! Feel the magic of the llamas!

The dice throwers at Q WORKSHOP recommend this set for everyone, not just llama fans!
