Product Description

In "Earth" you build your own ecosystem in a grid of 4 by 4 cards. The rules of "Earth" are quickly explained, and with over 360 cards and 25,000 starting positions, the replay appeal is very high. In every game there is something new to discover and different ways to score points. "Earth" is a game in which you will never get bored, because even if it is not your turn, you may also perform the chosen action of the active player in a weakened form. And the effects that are assigned to an action are also triggered at the end of each turn for all the other players. So you are permanently in the middle of the game, thinking and pondering what you want to do next. The actions are thematically woven into the theme, so you can choose between planting, watering, growing, composting to optimise your engine and grid. "Earth" appeals to family and frequent players alike and also impresses with a relatively short playing time of 60-120 minutes compared to the depth of the game.
