Product Description

With Azul Mini, Azul can be played anywhere. The player rests of the compact version prevent the stones from slipping. All the game material can be stowed away in the high-quality fabric bag with a snap closure to take with you. The rules do not change, so the complete Azul experience can now be taken along when travelling.

Also in the mini version of the tactical tile-laying game Azul (Game of the Year 2018), you are tile-layers who have been personally commissioned by King Manuel I to decorate his palace with mosaics made of the most beautiful tiles. You have to compete with each other to get the best tiles from the factories at the best possible time. But be careful: If you are too greedy, the tiles will break and it will rain minus points.

Since a mural only shows its full beauty when the tiles are contiguous, you get extra points for contiguous tiles. If a player's first horizontal line is completely filled, the game ends with an additional score and special points.
