Product Description

The iconic FIAT 500, starting in 1957 for the full two decades when production took place, motorised Italy. In 1965 Abarth, specialising in improving and providing sports features for Fiat cars, modified the popular 500 by releasing the Abarth 595 version. The modification significantly improved the car's performance and appearance. The 1/35th scale model, made from 100% COBI bricks, very faithfully reflects the distinctive shapes of the original Fiat Abarth 595. With 71 elements, minor modifications of the car are possible. In this model, COBI has dispensed with stickers. They have been replaced by durable prints that cannot even be worn off during intensive play. Rotating wheels equipped with tyres are ideal for moving the model during play. The COBI design model will not only be a toy in the children's room, but will also contribute to interest in the automotive industry. It will certainly help to develop children's motor skills and improve design skills. For adult fans of clamp bricks, it will be a beautiful model of the vehicle and perhaps the beginning of the future collection. Attention! Not suitable for children under 36 months!
