Product Description

How far do you think Robbi rolls in about 4 seconds? Well, it depends on how fast he goes! As a team, you try to develop a feeling for time and speed. This soon works pretty well and you know exactly where Robbi stops.

One player takes on the role of the robot. The robot makes a "beep" and travels from the starting point along the line in the direction of the arrow - although the robot does not really travel, of course, but only in its mind. Then the robot makes a second "beep" and stops. The question for all the players is: How far has the robot travelled between the two beeps and which object has it arrived at? The other players try to guess the correct object.

- Number: for 2 to 6 players
