Product Description

The Sherman Firefly was a British modification of the most popular American tank from the Second World War. The British used their 17-pounder gun in it. The abbreviation "IC" stands for a variant with cast front armour and welded back. It was a very successful design that appeared on the Western Front in mid-1944. The COBI model was given the original markings of the Polish forces fighting alongside the Allies and the historical name "REVENGE II". The tank was developed to match the 1:35 scale figures and consists of 600 building blocks. Features of the model include: a hinged hatch, access to an engine built from one block, a rotating turret, a movable cannon and working rails. All graphic elements are high quality prints. There are no stickers in the set. The box also contains a sign with the name of the tank. An important element of the set is a very carefully designed exclusive figure: General Władysław Anders (1892-1970), Polish general and politician. In September 1939 he fought with German and Soviet troops. He was captured by Russia. He was commander of the Polish Army in the USSR and of the 2nd Polish Corps. After the war he became Commander-in-Chief and Inspector General of the Polish Armed Forces of the Republic of Poland and successor to the President of the Republic of Poland in exile. He died in 1970 and was buried with his soldiers in the Polish cemetery in Monte Cassino. The Sherman Firefly together with the figure of General Władysław Anders is a must for lovers of history, armour and a beautiful model for any collection dedicated to World War II. Cobi's 1:35 scale collection is not complete without this set! Build history, piece by piece!
