Product Description

Barkas B1000 is a van and minibus produced in the former GDR between 1961 and 1991. It is the only car of this class that was produced in the GDR. Barkas cars were mainly operated in the GDR. The fire brigade version was adapted to the needs of the fire brigade.

You build a Barkas car in the fire brigade version from the Cobi set of clamp bricks with up to 151 elements. The model was faithfully reproduced in 1:35 scale. The set dispensed completely with stickers. The building blocks are covered with high-quality prints that do not fade even during intensive fun. The kit has a well thought-out compact design and movable wheels.

The COBI design building block model will not only be a toy in the children's room, but will also contribute to the interest in the history of the automotive industry. It will certainly help to develop children's motor skills and improve design skills. For adult fans of clamp bricks, it will be a beautiful model of the historical vehicle and perhaps the beginning of the future collection.
