Product Description

In Archeos Society, you take on the role of competing archaeologists who lead their expedition team in exploring legendary sites. Each turn, you recruit a new member for the excavation team or start an expedition from your hand by playing cards that have the same colour or role. The top card determines which continent is explored and gives your expedition a special effect.

To emerge victorious, you must find the perfect balance in recruiting expedition members and making discoveries, while keeping an eye on the progress of the competition.

Archeos Society is a tactical set collection game based on the mechanics of the strategy game Ethnos. It impresses in particular with its elegant gameplay, varied illustrations and a very high replay value because the card sets can be combined with each other again and again.
