Product Description

The floor model is a replica of the Panzerkampfwagen VI and the Tiger I version E. The Tiger was certainly the most famous armoured vehicle of the Second World War. Its firepower and protective armour made it the dominant factor on all battlefields in the years 1943-44. However, it caused considerable problems due to its complex mechanical construction. Tiger crews were constantly engaged in maintenance work, made more difficult by the extreme conditions of the African desert and the Russian plains.
