Product Description

The USS Arizona (BB-39) and the USS Pennsylvania (BB-38) are American battleships of the Pennsylvania class. Both ships were built during the First World War. Arizona was sunk during the attack on Pearl Harbor, today there is a memorial dedicated to the sailors' victims above the wreckage. The Pennsylvania took part in the Pacific campaigns until the end of the Second World War. After the war, it was destroyed during the nuclear tests of Operation Crossroads.

A model made of COBI building blocks on a scale of 1:300 is a real challenge for all master builders. It consists of 2,088 elements and requires several hours of intensive and exciting assembly. It is exactly 61.5 cm long and 19 cm high. It has movable elements such as artillery turrets and cannon barrels, propellers and a rudder. High-quality printing made it possible to show even more details that make the block-shaped ship look very attractive! Thanks to the intuitive instructions based on clear icons, the assembly is easy and does not cause any problems. The set includes a special display stand with the ship's name laser engraved on it. The ship looks very impressive on it, and will delight engineering and ship fans alike! American Pennsylvania Ships will be a unique decoration for any history, maritime or military enthusiast's collection. Build a story, block by block!
