Product Description

The Horch 830BK Cabriolet in sensational 1:35 scale is another set that refers to the history of the automotive industry! The use of elements specially adapted to the needs of vehicles makes the COBI models very attractive and retains many surprising details. Particularly noteworthy are precise prints instead of the previously used stickers. The Horch 830BK model is significantly shorter than the limousine that was driven by General de Gaulle, among others.

The set includes a figure relating to the person of Stefan Starzyński, a politician, soldier and above all the memorable President of Warsaw, who refused to evacuate from the city and served as Civilian Commissioner of the Warsaw Defence Command until the end. An outstanding organiser, he built up the civil defence network and constantly kept up the spirit of Warsaw's fighting population.

Horch is a German automobile company founded in Zwickau (Saxony) in the early 20th century. From the very beginning, Horch cars were characterised by high quality, modern technical solutions and a great finish. In 1933, the luxury sedan "Horch 830" debuted on the market and became an instant hit. This prompted the manufacturer to release new variants of the car. In the following years, the shortened Horch 830BK and the Horch 830BL appeared in the version with extended bodywork.
