Product Description

The German four-axle railway platform is designed to transport vehicles and loads of up to 50 tonnes and has been carefully designed in 1:35 model scale to match the rest of the 20th century railway and vehicle collection. It is ideal for transporting tanks and vehicles from the Second World War that are in the COBI collection. An attractive addition to this model, besides movable carts and detailed prints, is a figure of a German railway guard with miniature lamp. The cart can be attached to locomotives from the new COBI railway collection.

The set includes three sections of straight track with a length of approx. 39 cm. The track is made using a modern two-colour injection moulding technology, which makes each individual section of about 13 cm long a single element made of two different coloured plastics that are joined together. The grey steel rails stand out clearly against the very realistic railway sleepers in brown with wood texture! There are no visible pegs (rivets) on each sleeper, which greatly enhances their realism. Tracks can be attached to structural block plates and have an engineering hole thanks to which you can permanently attach the tracks to the railway diorama with a screw or nail.

This set is the perfect gift for any history and railway lover.
