Product Description

The F-16D Fighting Falcon is a two-seat training and combat version of a multi-role aircraft designed by the American company General Dynamics. The F-16 has been manufactured by mega-corporation Lockheed Martin since 1993. It is used by the air forces of several dozen countries around the world. The Fighting Falcon is a 4th generation fighter developed and put into mass production in the 1970s. The latest versions of the aircraft meet the requirements of Generation 4.5 fighters.

The F-16 aircraft have repeatedly participated in combat operations as attack and fighter aircraft. They were first used in combat by Israel on 7 June 1981 during the attack on the Osirak nuclear reactor in Iraq. The first foreign aircraft shot down by an F-16 in 1981 was a Soviet-made Syrian MiG-21 fighter. The most extensive mass deployment of F-16 aircraft took place during Operation Desert Storm in Iraq in 1991. A full 249 aircraft took part in the operation! Later, the F-16s fought in Pakistan, Afghanistan and took part in many other combat operations. From 410 highest quality COBI building blocks, build the F-16®D FIGHTING FALCON®, the world's most popular training and combat aircraft, licensed under the defence megacorporation Lockheed Martin. The set has been carefully designed in 1:48 scale. The blocks are covered with high quality prints. The specially designed two-seater cabin has room for two full-size pilot figures! The cabin was produced with the new technology of two-colour injection. This is a novelty in production technology and a new COBI quality! The set includes two pilot figures equipped with helmets and oxygen masks with hose. The whole set is completed by a block stand with a sign with the name of the set!

Thanks to the intuitive instructions, the construction is easy and will not cause any problems for less advanced builders. The set will meet the expectations of aviation enthusiasts, military enthusiasts and block enthusiasts. The F-16 will look great in an adult collector's home as well as in a teenager's room. Create a story with COBI!
