Product Description

The floor model is a replica of the Honda S2000. The first production car, which was an open two-seater, was called the S500 and was first presented and announced at the Tokyo Motor Show in 1962. In 1998, the S2000 was announced, which meant a sensational rebirth of the two-seater sports car. The car received some visual changes, such as futuristic headlights that wrapped around the side and appeared to be retracted. The naturally aspirated 2.0-litre inline 4-cylinder DOHC VTEC powerplant produced over 250bhp and still managed to reduce exhaust emissions to 1/10th of the level of its predecessors. The S2000 was developed for the 50th anniversary, making it a special sports car of the 21st century. Caution! Not suitable for children under 14 years.
