Product Description

Anyone interested in modern military history cannot ignore the Tornado GR.4. The RAF (Royal Air Force) fighter jet defined the missions of the British Luftwaffe for decades. And it is precisely this jet that is now taking the hearts of accomplished modellers to lofty heights! This 1:32 scale model brings with it everything that guarantees hours of crafting fun and should not be missing from any collection!

More than three decades in the service of Her Majesty For a whole 35 years, the Tornado GR.4 was the pride of the Royal Air Force, the "Royal Luftwaffe". Then this unique multi-role fighter was put into well-earned retirement - its successor, the F-35, is now conquering the skies over the UK.

For the farewell in February 2019, the skies over eastern England shone in deepest blue as the last jets showed what they could do one last time in a formation of nine.

Many visitors were thrilled at the sight of the aircraft and even more so when they saw the colourful special livery that the RAF's 31st Squadron had given its star as a farewell: a gold star on the tailplane, competing with the sun far above!
