The Mustang P-51D is a unique model of the film aircraft, released under the original licence from TOP GUN: Maverick™. The main character of the film is proud to own this very aircraft. The model was built from 150 COBI building blocks on a scale of 1:48. The set contains only high-quality prints with reference to the painting of the film machine. The licensed Mustang made from COBI bricks is not only a great film gadget, but also a model with which fans of action cinema, aviation and military technology will start more than one collection! The North American P-51 Mustang is an American single-engine fighter aircraft of the Second World War. It was manufactured at North American Aviation plants in the USA. It was successfully used by the US Air Force and its allies in the Second World War and the Korean War. A very successful design from 1940 led to the aircraft being continuously developed until 1986! Around 15-16,000 were produced in 46 years. Mustangs. Today, many of these aircraft are privately owned, just like in the film Top Gun: Maverick™.
