Product Description

Now you can become the owner of the legendary German off-road vehicle Kübelwagen TYP 82 in the version made from COBI building blocks! This is our first large vehicle in 1:12 scale from the Second World War! It was modelled on a museum piece in the German Tank Museum in Münster (Germany). It is huge, VERY detailed and looks impressive in combination with the upcoming Tiger 131 from The Tank Museum! Set (#2803) With 1,326 parts and generous dimensions, this set is in a class of its own. When closed, the Kübelwagen is 30.5 cm long. Attention is drawn to the carefully reproduced interior, the outstanding exterior design and completely new elements that have been specially developed to meet the needs of such a large ensemble. The interior of the car is detailed in all parts, including the steering wheel, seats, buttons, switches and the engine compartment, which contains additional tools! The exterior also raises the bar in terms of accuracy of proportion and detail that only a kit of this size can offer. Suffice it to mention a separate window, opening doors, access to the boot lid and engine compartment, equipment elements and swivelling wheels that can be moved via the steering wheel. Our 1:28 scale models are considered to be very detailed. However, it is the 1:12 scale and 1,326 elements that enable us to demonstrate the possibilities of the COBI modular system. The Kübelwagen represents a new level of design, photorealism and impressive size and precision. In this case, it's the number of blocks that counts! The Kübelwagen TYP 82 set was developed in co-operation with the German Tank Museum Münster (Germany). We hope that both collectors and fans of COBI will have as much fun building and displaying this car as we had designing and building it. For anyone who loves militaria, military technology and history, this is an opportunity to bring a big piece of that history home. Build the story block by block! The Kübelwagen Type 82 was a German military all-terrain vehicle produced during the Second World War. It was developed in response to the Wehrmacht's need for an easy-to-maintain, economical and reliable vehicle for use in a variety of terrain. More than 50,000 of these vehicles were produced between 1940 and 1945. It was mainly used as an all-terrain, transport, ambulance and reconnaissance vehicle as well as a platform for mounting light weapons. After the Second World War, some of the surviving Kübelwagens continued to be used by various countries and as civilian vehicles. Thanks to its functionality, lightness and reliability, the Kübelwagen has become a classic symbol of the off-road vehicle and is still appreciated by automobile enthusiasts all over the world today.
