Product Description

UGM-11 Truck - 420 Components

Truckers who like to call themselves asphalt cowboys will have their true joy with the new UGEARS(R) wooden model "UGM-11 Truck". This artful product à la Wild Wild West will not only be liked by boys, but every art connoisseur and toy model lover alike.

The models from UGEARS(R) are by no means to be considered as toys, but are small mechanical works of art that will delight every truck lover. The wooden construct, which consists of a total of 420 components, has a rubber engine that can be driven realistically via an accelerator pedal. With a gear as well as a steering wheel, the chassis can thus be experienced and precisely tracked through the openwork wooden construction. The focus is thus on technology and the mechanical world of steampunk, which wants to illustrate this down to the smallest gear. The direction of travel is thus called knowledge acquisition of technical achievements and is entirely in the style of retrofuturism. This still life thus represents a high-horsepower engine world and, as a postmodern work of art, is much more something for the display case or the office table of a freight forwarder. On the support surface in the truck interior, the UGM-11 also heats up every look.

Warning! Not for children under 3 years.
