Product Description

BELL® P-39D AIRACOBRA® is an American single-engine fighter aircraft from the Second World War era, metal construction with classic tail in low-wing configuration with tricycle landing gear. This aircraft was manufactured in the years 1940-1944. The main user of this type of aircraft was the Soviet Union, which received it as part of lend lease support. The advantage of the aircraft was its high top speed and good performance at low altitudes. These characteristics were successfully utilised by the American and Soviet air forces and made the Airacobra an attack aircraft for engaging ground targets. At low altitudes, the Airacobra outperformed the German Bf 109 and Fw 190 aircraft, with the best pilot being Alexander Pokryshkin, who achieved 48 of his 59 victories in P-39s. He flew this type of aircraft, although other pilots in his unit received Russian equipment. BELL® P-39Q AIRACOBRA® was designed with 380 COBI building blocks in 1:32 scale. The clamp-on model features many movable elements such as a rotating propeller, movable wing ailerons, wheels with rubber tyres that can be folded into a horizontal position. Details and historical American olive colour painting have been reproduced. The cockpit can be opened to accommodate the historical pilot figure! The whole set looks great thanks to a special presentation stand with a sign with the name of the aircraft and a place to attach the figure! The model uses durable imprints and historical markings. The set completes the collection of World War II aircraft in 1/32nd scale and is aimed at lovers of history, military technology and enthusiasts of the highest quality terminal block models!
