Product Description

V-Express Steamlocomotive with Tender - 538 Components

Ugears models are exceptional in every respect. They are wooden models, but they are anything but toys for small children. They are faithfully modeled on historical models and consist of numerous individual parts such as flywheels, gears and the fire doors. Many parts are movable. For example, the fire door can be opened.

The V-Express steam locomotive with tender is manufactured with the greatest attention to detail. The model corresponds to a typical locomotive from the Victorian era, the age of the steam locomotive. It consists of more than 500 parts. At the sight of this powerful express locomotive from Ugears immediately come to mind nostalgic images of the Orient Express and other great trains of the past.

The V-Express locomotive is distinguished by several special features. Like many models of the manufacturer, this one is equipped with a rubber engine. This means the locomotive is fully movable. A small lever can even be used to change the direction of travel or switch to neutral. With the rubber motor fully cocked, the model can travel a distance of about 4 meters. But that's not all. The model is also very environmentally friendly, because all parts are made of wood. To assemble it, you do not need special tools, glue or other environmentally harmful chemicals. Everything is put together by mechanical connections.

Warning! Not for children under 3 years.
