Product Description

In the Desert War, the German military fought against Great Britain and its allies from March 1941 to May 1943 under the guise of the German Africa Corps (DAK). As German forces entered North Africa under the able command of Lieutenant General Erwin Rommel, an intense battle raged across the hot desert sands of Egypt, Libya and Tunisia. Dragon already has some great 1/35th scale kits depicting tanks and self-propelled guns that served with the DAK - recently re-released as practical ranges - and now Dragon is offering a collection of German figures to go well with these vehicles. To commemorate the start of the Desert War 80 years ago, Dragon's collection features five 1/35th scale figure sets. This quintet of Dragon figure sets includes some classics and great favourites, many of which have been hard to come by in recent years. Each 1:35 scale figure features historically accurate details such as uniforms and weapons, while their lifelike poses are vibrant yet versatile. Thanks to this practical North African collection, modellers now have no excuse not to add matching German figures to their desert vignettes or dioramas. Attention! Not suitable for children under 14 years.
