Product Description

The COBI railway collection continues to grow! Another historic railway wagon has been added to the range to match the new 1:35 scale releases: the BR 52 locomotive and the 50t platform! The type Ommr 32 "LINZ" goods wagon was designed at the end of the 1930s. It is a typical structure that was built with the impending armed conflict in Europe in mind. This wagon was intended for the transport of vehicles and various goods, including: Lorries, cars, cannons and, above all, barrels and crates as well as loose materials such as coal. Its load capacity was around 25 tonnes. The Kleimmbaustein version of the type Ommr 32 "LINZ" goods wagon was built from 584 elements and has a simple mechanical system for connecting the wagons. Building your own railway set is very easy! The set also includes a worker figure with a shovel and small blocks imitating coal. The set also uses permanent printing on the blocks, no stickers have been used. The set contains two new sections of curved track (R88 curve) and one straight section. This is the second form of railway track in the COBI collection! As with the straight section, the two-colour spraying technique has also been used here, making the tracks grey and the track decks brown with a texture imitating wood grain. Double sleepers are used at the track connection point as in the real track. The tracks are fully compatible with the products of other terminal block brands and perfectly imitate real tracks. The Ommr 32 "LINZ" goods wagon set is the perfect addition to the growing collection of trains from COBI! The set is perfect for lovers of high-quality block modelling, history and railway enthusiasts!
