Product Description

The Carrera EVOLUTION Ford GT Race Car "No. 67" is the model version of the Ford GT racing car. With the Ford GT, the racing car manufacturer from Detroit is bidding farewell to northern France's legendary endurance race for the time being. The number 67 is an allusion to the famous winning car of Gurney and Foyt in the Ford MK IV from 1967, and the eye-catching red and white paintwork guarantees that the vehicle will attract the full attention of spectators. The elegant sports car was sold by the manufacturer Chip Ganassi Racing in strictly limited numbers and conquers the long-distance track with 656 hp. The Ford GT in 1:32 scale also attracts attention on the home slot racing track when it whizzes round the bends. Thanks to the official Ford licence, the slot car has been recreated in every detail from the original. The model even has working front and rear lights. The Carrera car can also be converted to digital using a separate digital decode and offers unmistakable driving fun for young and old.
