Product Description

Panzerkampfwagen III is a German medium tank from the Second World War. It was the most dynamically developed model used in the army of the Third Reich. Many versions were produced between 1937 and 1943 and the successful chassis served as the basis for the production of other military vehicles. It was a very good design that was used until the end of the war. The crew consisted of 5 people. The tank took part in military operations on all European fronts and in North Africa. This time we have prepared a model for operations on the Eastern Front of the Second World War. The Hungarian army actively supported the German troops in the east, which is why the set includes, in addition to the tank model, a carefully designed figure of a Hungarian soldier equipped with a two-colour rifle, helmet and forage cap with imprints. A completely new tank model made of COBI bricks has many movable elements such as a hinged hatch, a rotating turret, a movable gun barrel and rotating wheels and tracks! Remarkable is the possibility to build two versions of the weapon (2in1). Additional elements allow the manufacturer to choose between a long and a short barrel version of the tank! A variety of detailed imprints reflect important details of the vehicle! The maintenance hatch at the rear of the vehicle can be lifted to reveal the built engine. Another advantage of the set is its very solid construction, which faithfully reflects the original moulds of its historical role model. The model is perfect as part of the collection of history and armour enthusiasts. The set contains a tank to be built, a Hungarian soldier figure and a plate with the model designation.
