Product Description

The sequel to the popular board game with the Ghostbusters confronts you and up to three other players this time with Vigo, a medieval tyrant and sorcerer from the 16th century, and his henchmen. The Ghostbusters are the only ones who can save slime-flooded New York and the rest of the world from the yoke of the dark prince. You can easily avert chaos and the demise of your game box with our foam set. It fits exactly into the original Ghostbusters: The Board Game II board game box. Our set is suitable for both the Kickstarter version (Ghostbuster Tier) and the regular retail version. The lower insert is divided into 21 compartments, 18 of which are intended for miniatures. These keep the Street Creeper, Brain Matter, Snake Head Ghost and Soar Throat figures safe from proton beams and other threats. Three further compartments keep everything organised and tidy. The large compartment has been customised for the square tiles and the large cards. On top are the tiles: PKE Meter, Ecto-Tank and Ecto-1A. There is also a compartment on this insert for the small cards, with a finger-wide cut-out. A third compartment provides space for all the dice in the game. Mat number two is dedicated exclusively to the figures. In addition to the Proton Pack and the Slime Blower Ghostbusters figures with their Ecto-1a, there are still 30 compartments for the figures of Jail Jaw, Granny Gross, Mail Fraud, X-Cop, Grand/Super Plasm, as well as for the two Slimer miniatures, the First Mate, Captain Jack Higgins and the Skeleton Crew from the Slimer Sea Fright Expansion Pack. The third foam mat has two customised compartments for the two-piece Lady Liberty head, so that it doesn't break out of its crown. The Washington Square Ghost also gets a customised compartment. The three round compartments are reserved for the Scoleri brothers Nunzio and Tony, as well as for the Mega Plasm figure. The medieval tyrant Vigo gets a rectangular compartment, the other goes to Janosz Poha. One of the three remaining compartments houses all the snap-on bases, in the other two you can sort tokens, counters and the Vigo Painting Tile. This accommodates all the figures. Storing the miniatures in soft foam compartments provides optimum protection for sensitive parts during transport. The snake heads keep their wings and the ghost hunters their proton emitters. If you paint your miniatures, the colours are also optimally protected against abrasion and chipping. The game material is always clearly organised and quickly available, which significantly speeds up the game setup and is easy on your nerves. Even during transport, nothing flies around and no counters get lost. A matching foam lid completes the all-round care of the Ghostbusters: The Board Game II box. The Operations and Field Manual is then placed on top of this. The lid of the board game box protrudes approx. 6 cm.
