Product Description

The warp storms have subsided, the Herakon Cluster is now accessible and ready to be conquered. Four factions - Space Marines, Chaos Space Marines, Orks and Eldar - vie for control of the planets and ancient treasures of this sector. In Warhammer 40000: Forbidden Worlds, you must build massive armies, construct cities and factories and, of course, fight battles to outmanoeuvre your opponents. Of course, you'll need excellent strategic and planning skills to do this. At Feldherr, we recommend that you put your planning skills to the test before you throw yourself into the fray. After all, you want to have all your units ready to hand when it counts, right? Our foam set for Warhammer 40000: Forbidden Worlds allows you to organise all your game material neatly and store it safely. When we say all the game material, we really mean all the game material: units, buildings, star system boards - EVERYTHING fits in! The set consists of four customised, stackable foam inserts. Two of the four inserts are reserved for miniatures of the four factions and buildings. You can store star system boards, stands and other miniatures in another insert. The fourth tray has customised compartments for accessories such as cards, markers, dice and resource wheels. We also supply a foam cover to protect the game components in the top tray. Incidentally, the inserts fit exactly into the original board game box - nothing slips, nothing wobbles. As you can see, Feldherr has your back so that you can devote your full attention to the really important things: the battle for the Herakon cluster!
