Product Description

The sports version of the legendary Fiat 500 was developed by Italian tuner and sports car manufacturer Carlo Abarth and produced between 1958 and 1971. This small car enjoyed great popularity due to its compact size, low weight and unmistakable appearance. The Fiat 500 was equipped with an improved 595 cc engine. It also featured a sports suspension, an improved braking system and unique design details. This model became an icon of Italian style and achieved success both on the racetrack and as a city car with a unique character. The sensational clamp-on model was designed on a large scale of 1:12, which enables enormous attention to detail. Up to 1,091 elements guarantee many hours of building time and culminate in a great-looking model made of clamping blocks. The standard version is characterised by a white body colour with a black stripe on the roof. Features of the model include rotating and swivelling wheels, a working steering wheel, access to the engine compartment, opening doors and a detailed red interior. We have designed a perfectly matching windscreen for this set. Complete your collection of classic cars from COBI!
