Product Description

Aviation legend of the United States Navy! We have recreated the TBF Avenger from 392 COBI building blocks in 1:48 scale. Now you can easily build support for your giant COBI bombers. Avenger is also a perfect addition to COBI's collection of giant ships! The set contains only high-quality prints with reference to the historical painting of the aircraft. Particularly noteworthy is the very well designed pilot's cabin. We have also used a new colour of light blue blocks. Now our block planes look even better! The model has a landing gear with rotating wheels, a propeller and access to the pilot's cockpit. The licensed Avenger made from COBI blocks is a great model that will open many a collection among aviation and military technology enthusiasts! It's also a perfect model to get your adventure with Polish COBI blocks off to a great start! Build history, brick by brick! The North American TBF Avenger is an American carrier-based torpedo bomber that was mainly used in World War II. Designed by the Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corporation, the TBF Avenger was a key element of American naval aviation during the fighting in the Pacific. The aircraft, which entered service in 1942, was used to attack surface targets, especially enemy ships. The three-man crew consisted of a pilot, a gunner and an operator. The TBF Avenger was armed with a machine gun and could carry torpedoes, bombs and missiles. Its participation in the Battle of Midway in 1942 was crucial to the success of American naval aviation. After the end of the Second World War, the TBF Avenger was gradually replaced by newer designs, but remained in service until the 1960s. This aircraft gained fame as a reliable fighting machine that could survive even heavy damage and return to the aircraft carrier!
