Product Description

Safely storing and transporting an Arachnarok Spider and a model of the Mangler Squigs (with and without Loonboss) Goblins have probably the most unusual mounts in the Old World. Those who have encountered a manned Arachnarok Spider or crossed paths with the Mangler Squigs can tell you that they not only look impressive, but are also particularly effective weapons. As impressive as they are fragile - to ensure that the two models arrive at the gaming table in one piece, we have created this matching foam set. A large compartment houses the manned Arachnarok. Thanks to the precise cut, the delicate figure remains in its softly padded place during transport. The sensitive parts are optimally protected from damage here and no grot falls off the platform. The colours of the coloured miniature are also safe from abrasion and scratches here. In addition to the spider, there is also a precisely fitting compartment in which the Mangler Squigs can be kept quiet for a change. Balls, chains and crew remain on the squig. Both compartments are dimensioned so that the models fit in all construction variants. A Loonboss also fits on Mangler squigs. To ensure that the Arachnarok Spider's towering combat platform is adequately protected, the set comes with a 55 mm high cover with a cut-out. The mat also serves as a cover for the Mangler Squigs. A matching foam cover rounds off the set so that the Spiderfang Grot crew also have a cover.
