For ages 14 and up. Not a children's toy.7WON appropriately consists of 7 boxes that can be removed individually and distributed as desired on the game table.Box 1: All cards go in here. The positioning of the dividers is fixed and depends on the order in which the cards are needed during the game, e.g. the black city cards and the purple guild cards have their own compartments, as they have to be shuffled in depending on the number of players. Premium card sleeves are supported - we used the ones from Swan Panasia.Box 2: Looks a bit like a bridge and has three compartments at the top for the Babel tiles. The space below holds the game boards. There is enough space to store all 14 game boards of the main game and the expansions, even if they are also in card sleeves (Swan Panasia produces these specially). If you don't have all the expansions, there will be some empty space, but the "bridge design" means that all the trays stay in place and nothing slips.Tray 3: CoinsTray 4: Markers from the Cities expansionTrays 5, 6 and 7 are stacked on top of each other and contain all the Babel markers and the conflict markers. A cavity is hidden under the three trays, into which exactly one scoring block fits.When all the trays have been placed in the box, a cavity remains at the top, into which the Babel building project cards fit. There is enough space to either put these cards in sleeves as well or to place the additional scoring blocks that you get from the expansions there.The Babel game board and the rulebooks are then placed on top at the very end and the box can be closed flush. The box can easily be stored on edge.This item is supplied as a kit that needs to be assembled. We recommend using wood glue for this (not included in the package).
