Product Description

You can recognise them from afar, the followers of the plague god. The stench of decay is just as hard to hide as their bodies covered in plague and disfigured by disease. After all, their unusually friendly and cheerful god gives them plenty of gifts. And they are only too happy to share them, spreading them just as generously across the mortal realms. We cannot protect Nurgle's faithful from their inner decay and infirmity, but we can give the miniatures of your Nurgle army a long, happy life with this case. There are 2 compartments on the first foam mat, cut to fit two Pusgoyle Blightlords on their mounts. These can alternatively be occupied by the Lord of Afflictions and an accompanying Pusgoyle Blightlord. In addition to the Lords of the Rotbringers, the Beast of Nurgle also has a customised compartment. The slimy monster in the service of the Plague Lord is safely stored here along with its claws and tentacles. 2 further compartments can be filled with miniatures of your choice. They are ideal for the Lord of Blights and Rotbringer's Sorcerer, among others. The two square compartments are each 70 mm long x 70 mm wide x 100 mm deep. The second foam insert has space for three Plague Drones. There is a precisely tailored compartment for each of the three wardens in the Nurgle's garden. The sensitive parts, such as wings, plague trunks and the blades of the Plaguebearer, are optimally protected from damage here. There is also a further compartment on the insert for the Horticultural Slimux. The wrinkly gardener on his snail-like mount, Mulch, also has a safe place here, away from Nurgle's garden, and he can continue to execute enemies on the snail shell with his Lopping Shears without being damaged. There are two more foam inserts to complete your army. The warriors of your battle line can assemble here, for example. The two mats are each divided into 30 compartments of different sizes, which can be filled with miniatures of your choice. They are ideal for models of the Plaguebearers of Nurgle or Putrid Blightkings. The precisely fitting compartments ensure that the miniatures stay in place and do not bump into each other, even on uneven terrain. Your models, which have been coloured in after hours of painting, are therefore safe from scratches and chipped paint. A matching foam lid ensures that everything is safely packed away. Of course, the inserts fit exactly into the storage box. This is made of coated, double-walled cardboard and is therefore both very light and very sturdy. The lid reliably protects the contents from dust and other external influences. Caution! Not suitable for children under 36 months.
