Product Description

This Feldherr storage box, filled with matching foam inserts, is not only a safe place to store the capital battleship of the rebel forces. You can also store more than 25 squadrons safely and transport them safely to the gaming table. The large compartment on the insert for the Nadiri Starhawk is customised to fit the model of the battleship. Surrounded by soft foam, the delicate edges and other fine parts of the miniature are protected from damage. The colours are also reliably protected against scratches and abrasion. In addition to the miniature, there is also a large compartment for the base. The holding fin can also be stored here. You can also store the ship cards and markers here. The command and thrust wheels go in the two small round compartments. There are also six square compartments for storing squadrons. On the opposite side, there are five rectangular compartments for game material or other small miniatures. The second foam insert can be used individually for the Rebels or the Imperial Fleet. The following Imperial units can be placed in the compartments: Imperial squadrons, Imperial Gozanti-class assault carriers and Imperial assault corvettes. On the Rebel side, you can place these miniatures: Rebel Squadrons, Rebel Transports and CR90 Corellian Corvettes. So you can choose whether to use the mat for the Imperial Fleet or the Rebels. Four of the 22 slots are versatile, so they are suitable for the Gozanti-class Imperial Assault Carrier, the Imperial Assault Corvette, the Rebel Carrier and/or the CR90 Corellian Corvette. 18 Compartments for armada squadrons 4 compartments for rebel transporters, CR90 Corellian corvettes, Gozanti-class Imperial assault carriers or Imperial assault corvettes. Finally, a foam lid ensures that your ships are securely packed all round. The FSLB150 storage box made of coated, double-walled cardboard is not only lightweight, but also particularly robust. The plastic carrying handle makes it easy to transport your fleets.
