Product Description

The Mandalorian Gauntlet fighters are highly manoeuvrable on the battlefield due to their wings rotating around the hull. Many ships must have stood the test of time, as this fighter can be found in the ranks of the Rebels, the Empire and many criminal cartels. With this Feldherr foam inlay, you can ensure that the miniature of your Gauntlet fighter arrives intact on the battlefields of a distant galaxy and gives the enemy a good thrashing with its weapon systems. The large compartment is precisely tailored to fit a miniature model of the Gauntlet fighter. The ship sits securely in its soft foam compartment. The precise cut ensures that the miniature does not slide around during transport. This not only protects sensitive details from damage, but also the colours from abrasion and scratches. The base fits into the large square compartment together with some larger tokens. The holding rod also has its own compartment. There are 2 precisely fitting compartments for the 5 manoeuvre wheels. Distribute the remaining markers between the two corner compartments. You still have six rectangular compartments left for more fighters. These fit in here with a base. They are suitable, for example, for stowing Hyena-class droid bombers, Nantex-class starfighters or Vulture-class droid fighters. The tray is not intended for transporting the playing cards; these must be transported separately. The Feldherr half-size foam inlay HS045XW01 would be ideal for this purpose.
