Product Description

Even in an army of identical clone troopers, there are some who stand out from the crowd...The Clone Force 99 squad pack contains the members of the extraordinary clone unit for creating a strike team for the skirmish miniatures game Star Wars™: Shatterpoint. The members of Clone Force 99 break with all expectations, as they have genetic mutations that give them extraordinary abilities. Their call names reflect these abilities: Hunter, the leader of the unit, has particularly keen senses and is an excellent tracker. Tech is the technology expert who uses his extraordinary intelligence to support the team as a hacker and burglar. Rounding out the squad are Crosshair, the sniper, Wrecker, an unstoppable hand-to-hand fighter, and Echo, a former ARC soldier with cyber-implants. When the Republic became the Empire, the unit had to improvise to survive. They were joined by the young medical assistant Omega, herself the product of a cloning experiment. Protecting her is another reason for the Bad Batch to go their own way in a hostile galaxy. A Star Wars: Shatterpoint base game is required to play.
