Product Description

These powerful mobile weapon platforms of the Imperium are prime examples of the mechanical engineering skills of the Adeptus Mechanicus. Despite their size, the Armiger-class Imperial Knights excel in speed and manoeuvrability. If you equip your troops with both helverins and warglaives, you are equipped for both close combat and ranged combat. And to ensure that you are also equipped, we have the matching Feldherr foam insert to protect your miniatures. This half-size insert has two large customised compartments, each of which can hold a model of the Armiger Knight horizontally. This ensures that the weapons remain ready for use in the future. The compartments are suitable for both Armiger Helverins and Armiger Warglaives. Precisely fitting compartments and the soft foam ensure that the delicate details of your figures are optimally protected from damage during transport. The colours of painted models are just as safe from scratches and abrasion.
