Product Description

The 50 Clues series offers an immersive puzzle thriller to play at home. Players have to solve a case together by combining objects, solving puzzles and deciphering codes. With the help of a web app, they can check their solutions and receive hints if necessary. Each part can be played independently, but together No Sign of Life, Deeper Down and The Last Journey tell a coherent thriller: Sigrid's Quest. Although the story is designed to be played only once, the serial number can be activated up to 30 times in the app. In 50 Clues - The Last Journey, players experience the second part of the story: disguised as a soldier, you have made it onto the last ship and leave the island of Bornholm and the deadly fungus that is spreading there behind you. In your possession are a sample and a memory card with a potential cure. You must take both to a person called MALM. Only she can complete the research and perhaps stop the spread of the dangerous pathogen. But the GAIA company has also set its people on a mission to find MALM and destroy the research data. Take on the role of Sigrid once again and embark on your final journey. Caution: Not suitable for children under 36 months.
