Product Description

DSA Adventure - Star Bearer 4, The Storm Howl of Shiyadur, paperback (DE edition)

The storm howl of Shiyadur - Star Bearer IV by Dominic Hladek, Nikolai Hoch and Rafael Knop

Star bearers, that's how those elves are called who wore the star-shaped mark on their shoulder that made them chosen for higher tasks. According to legends, they once directed the fortunes of the Fenvar, the high elves, until the armies of the Dhaza, the nameless unlight, put an end to their empire.

In the vastness of the Bornland and Nivesenland, ruins still tell of past battles. Millennia-old mysteries are hidden here in dense forests, under snow and in the endless steppe. This is where the ancient light elf Niamh retreated, where the high elves once built bulwarks against the armies of the nameless and fought bitter battles against them. The aftermath of these wars is a rotten earth and suffering that is still at work here today. The soul song of the star bearer Amalaia is also closely interwoven with the fateful battle of the high elves in today's Moors of the Dead, and so the heroes' path leads them here.

In the fourth adventure of the Star Bearer campaign, the Nivesian steppes and Bornland are the destinations of the Bahalyr and their crew. In legendary places like the Silvanden Fae'den Karen and the Totenmoor you will be deeply involved in the events of Amalaia's death.

All further information on experiencing the adventure such as value boxes, cards and plans as well as handouts are contained in the volume.

The set of rules is required as well as the Aventurian Almanac. In addition, the previous Star Bearer games should have been played before.

Warning! Not suitable for children under 36 months.
