Product Description

Take Zeronen or buy a pair of cards? This is the question that two to four people aged eight and up ask themselves anew every turn. The aim of the game is to buy matching pairs of cards and form as many sets as possible. However, you need the necessary small change, the zeros, to buy them. "Zero Hero" always requires good tactics, as the purchase price of the sets on display changes again and again. If you are lucky, you can even take a pair of cards for free. In the course of the approximately twenty-minute game, everyone acquires a collection in which cards of the same colour form a set. But watch out: Only the solo and the three-card sets count in the scoring, which is why special actions are often very helpful.

After the final card is turned over, the score is settled: Now it becomes clear who collects the fewest zeros and who is the real "Zero Hero"! In this tactical trading card game, an easy start, a lot of fun and excitement until the end are guaranteed!
